The world's attention is focused painfully on a brutal third-world civil war, a merciless sectarian conflict sparing neither soldier nor civilian, grandmother nor child. But amidst the terror and carnage, where great nations and powerful interests jockey for position and advantage, another blood feud rages in the shadows, one no more humane but decidedly less human. Two warring tribes from the stars have chosen Earth's killing fields as their arena, with each clan sworn to eradicate the other and all who stand between them. Each is the other's prey, each the other's Predator. The hunt resumes as Dark Horse Books unleashes Predator once again into the graphic-fiction jungle. Features the creative team of writer John Arcudi (Aliens, B.P.R.D., Doom Patrol) and artist Javier Saltares (Aliens vs. Predator, Ghost Rider). * Collects the hit 2009 Predator miniseries.

A serial killer holds New York in his grip. He does not choose his victims. Nor does he watch them die. But then there are too many of them for that. The explosion of a twenty-two storey building, followed by the casual discovery of a letter, lead the police to face up to a dreadful reality: some of New York's buildings were mined at the time of their construction. But which ones? And how many? A young female detective hiding her personal demons behind a tough appearance, and a former press photographer with a past he'd rather forget, and for which he still seeks forgiveness, are the only hope of stopping this psychopath. A man who does not even claim responsibility for his actions. A man who believes himself to be God. Giorgio Faletti's thriller is set in Monte Carlo, home to so many obnoxious millionaires and their trophy girlfriends that what the city really needs is a serial killer. Enter just such a killer .. The writing has no great literary pretensions, but then it does not have to. The plot is the thing. Sunday Telegraph. "L'uomo che uccise Gesù Bambino" è un giallo dalla struttura classica, denso di richiami al mondo dell'arte. Carlo Sarasini, segretario dell'uomo d'affari Marco Mancieri, si chiude nell'ufficio di questi per uscirne poco dopo annunciando di averlo ammazzato. Poi si allontana in motocicletta ma, durante la fuga, precipita da una scarpata e viene ricoverato in ospedale in stato di coma. Il maresciallo Piranesi trova, vicino al cadavere, un enigmatico messaggio cifrato e, nella cassaforte dell'ufficio, un braccialetto d'argento e la foto di una ragazza col piercing al naso. Lo scemo del villaggio lo informa di aver assistito all'uccisione di "Gesù Bambino". Le sue parole, giudicate insensate, assumono un valore ben diverso quando la vedova di Mancieri, Sandra Cesati, spiega che "Gesù Bambino" era il nomignolo con cui in gioventù veniva chiamato il marito. Alla vicenda principale se ne sovrappongono diverse altre, su piani all'apparenza non comunicanti, con un montaggio di sapore cinematografico e il ricorso a frequenti flash-back. Il passato riaffiora attraverso la memoria di un altro delitto, avvenuto venticinque anni prima, e della vita bohemiènne vissuta da alcuni dei protagonisti, all'epoca, nella New York dei graffitisti americani emuli di Basquiat. E chi è l'uomo che vaga di notte per i boschi intorno alla città? Perché il pittore Daniele Paoli continua ad effigiare nelle proprie opere le vergini martiri cristiane? Qual è l'incubo che ha tormentato Mancieri fino alla sua drammatica fine? Su ogni cosa, aleggia l'inquietante presenza, in molteplici forme, del numero 21, il numero magico degli antichi. Poi, all'improvviso, alcuni dettagli aprono i primi squarci di luce sull'indagine. La verità si rivela, del tutto inattesa. Niente è come sembrava. E ogni mistero ha una logica spiegazione.

Like the work of Cormac McCarthy, Denis Johnson, Richard Ford, and Annie Proulx, Battleborn represents a near-perfect confluence of sensibility and setting, and the introduction of an exceptionally powerful and original literary voice. In each of these ten unforgettable stories, Claire Vaye Watkins writes her way fearlessly into the mythology of the American West, utterly reimagining it. Her characters orbit around the region's vast spaces, winning redemption despite - and often because of - the hardship and violence they endure. The arrival of a foreigner transforms the exchange of eroticism and emotion at a prostitution ranch. A prospecting hermit discovers the limits of his rugged individualism when he tries to rescue an abused teenager. Decades after she led her best friend into a degrading encounter in a Vegas hotel room, a woman feels the aftershock. Most bravely of all, Watkins takes on - and reinvents - her own troubled legacy in a story that emerges from the mayhem and destruction of Helter Skelter. Arcing from the sweeping and sublime to the minute and personal, from Gold Rush to ghost town to desert to brothel, the collection echoes not only in its title but also in its fierce, undefeated spirit the motto of her home state. From the Trade Paperback edition.

Art icon of the 1980s, Keith Haring first gained attention in the late 1970s for his drawings in the New York City subways. Over the next decade his subway graffiti, murals, sculptures and paintings gained worldwide recognition. Harings meteoritic artistic career spanned from 1980 to 1990, and in this brief period his boundless energy led him to produce an enormous quantity of legendary works. Here Harings work is re-examined from the perspective of his relations not just with Pop Art and the Neo-Pop movement, but also with Flemish painting and the historic avant-garde movements, reflecting the evolution of his creative poetics and the legacy he left.

Graffitista di strada, grafico, pittore e amico del re della Pop Art Andy Warhol, in meno di un decennio Jean-Michel Basquiat è diventato una star dell'arte internazionale, un culto per i giovani di tutto il mondo, e il memoir "Widow Basquiat" di Jennifer Clement rappresenta il documento più profondo, stimolante, completo, divertente e doloroso sulla sua vita. Morto per overdose a soli ventisette anni, attraverso le memorie della compagna e musa Suzanne Mallouk -primo grande amore, compagna di vita e musa di Jean-Michel- il lettore avrà la possibilità di ripercorrere il vissuto di questo eccentrico artista, dall'infanzia problematica all'effimero passaggio attraverso il bianco mondo dei galleristi e collezionisti "nouveau riche" e "radical chic". Alla prosa asciutta e poetica ed emotivamente risonante si alternano umorismo mordace e racconti di sconcertanti abusi d'ogni tipo. Una rapsodia dolce e amara che narra il farsi ed il disfarsi di una tormentata storia d'amore.

Nuvolo (né Giorgio Ascani, 1926-2008) was born in Città di Castello, in the province of Perugia. In 1950 Nuvolo moved to Alberto Burri's studio in Rome. After World War II, the artistic culture in Italy was characterized by a clash between the tradition of figuration and new modes of abstraction, and by a proliferation of artistic and theoretical movements incentivized by a young generation of artists and by a new international exchange of ideas, stimulated by the presence in Italy of European and American artists such as Jean Fautrier, Antoni Tàpies, Franz Kline, Conrad Marca-Relli, Robert Rauschenberg, Salvatore Scarpitta, and Cy Twombly. Nuvolo participated in the cultural ferment of this time, engaging with Ettore Colla and the experimental Gruppo Origine , and the group of artists and intellectuals involved with the magazine Arti Visive . Working within a two-dimensional, rectangular format typically associated with easel painting, Nuvolo introduced new techniques which relied on tension and textural variation, using a range of materials that included commonplace textiles as well as deerskin. Nuvolo also produced an ambitious series of works called " serotipie " using a silkscreen technique that enabled him to create intricate drawings which could be repeated ad infinitum. His work was praised by the poet Emilio Villa and promoted by gallerists such as Plinio De Martiis, Topazia Alliata, and Fiamma Vigo. This publication accompanies the first major exhibition of Nuvolo's work in the United States, held at Di Donna Galleries in Fall 2017. The book features an insightful essay by Germano Celant as well as a thorough chronology of Nuvolo's artistic explorations, contextualized within the non-figurative trends of his contemporaries as they unfolded in Italy, Europe, and the United States. Supporting materials include historical documentation and texts by and about the artist. These materials are supported by a large selection of color illustrations featuring works by Nuvolo produced between 1952 and 1965, some of which are published here for the first time.

At once radical, controversial and revered, Marina Abramovic is one of the most discussed artists today. Famous for her groundbreaking performance works, she continues to expand the boundaries of art. She explores the intersection between performing and visual art in her work and, though rarely overtly political, poses questions of power and hierarchy. In addressing fundamental issues of our existence and seeking the core of notions like loss, memory, pain, endurance, and trust, she both provokes and moves us.

The beautifully written, deeply affecting story of Jean-Michel Basquiat's partner, her past, and their life together New York City in the 1980s was a mesmerizing, wild place. A hotbed for hip hop, underground culture, and unmatched creative energy, it spawned some of the most significant art of the 20th century. It was where Jean-Michel Basquiat became an avant-garde street artist and painter, swiftly achieving worldwide fame. During the years before his death at the age of 27, he shared his life with his lover and muse, Suzanne Mallouk. A runaway from an unhappy home in Canada, Suzanne first met Jean-Michel in a bar on the Lower East Side in 1980. Thus began a tumultuous and passionate relationship that deeply influenced one of the most exceptional artists of our time. Predator: Prey to the Heavens

Bisogna aver toccato l'abisso per saperlo raccontare. Per descrivere il vuoto avvolgente di una ferita che diventa uno stigma o l'angosciante cantilena che rimbomba in una casa di cui si è da sempre l'unico inquilino. Per restituire con la sola forza della voce certi angoli della metropoli, dove la suburra si fa rifugio e l'esclusione sollievo; per dire il loro improvviso, tragico trasformarsi da giardino delle delizie in inferno musicale. Olivia Laing rompe le pareti dell'ordinario e edifica all'interno della New York reale una seconda città, fatta di buio e silenzio: un'onirica capitale della solitudine, cresciuta nelle zone d'ombra lasciate dalle mille luci della Grande Mela e attraversata ogni giorno dalle storie di milioni di abitanti senza voce. Un luogo in cui coabitano le esperienze universali di isolamento e i traumi privati di personaggi come Andy Warhol, Edward Hopper e David Wojnarowicz; in cui ogni narrazione è allo stesso tempo evocazione e confessione. Quella tracciata da Olivia Laing è una visionaria mappa per immagini del labirinto dell'alienazione. Un flusso narrativo che investe le strade di New York e nel quale si mescolano la morte per Aids del cantante Klaus Nomi e l'infanzia dell'autrice, cresciuta da una madre omosessuale costretta a trasferirsi di continuo per sfuggire al pregiudizio; gli esperimenti sociali di Josh Harris che anticiparono Facebook e i silenzi dell'inserviente-artista Henry Darger che dipinse decine di quadri meravigliosi e inquietanti senza mai mostrarli a nessuno; l'inconsistente interconnessione umana dell'era digitale e l'arida gentrificazione di luoghi simbolici come Times Square. Con Città sola il Saggiatore presenta al pubblico italiano una delle autrici più originali del panorama internazionale contemporaneo. La sua è un'opera ambiziosa che, grazie a una scrittura sinestetica e conturbante, scava a fondo nell'anima di ognuno di noi, affrontando le umiliazioni, le paure e le ossessioni dell'essere soli. Con la speranza che rivelare significati talvolta anche curare. Perché, come ricorda Olivia Laing, la solitudine è un posto affollato.

A fantastic collection of Soviet Asian architecture, many photographed here for the first time Soviet Asia explores the Soviet modernist architecture of Central Asia. Italian photographers Roberto Conte and Stefano Perego crossed the former Soviet republics of Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Uzbekistan and Tajikistan, documenting buildings constructed from the 1950s until the fall of the USSR. The resulting images showcase the majestic, largely unknown, modernist buildings of the region.

Museums, housing complexes, universities, circuses, ritual palaces - all were constructed using a composite aesthetic. Influenced by Persian and Islamic architecture, pattern and mosaic motifs articulated a connection with Central Asia. Grey concrete slabs were juxtaposed with colourful tiling and rectilinear shapes broken by ornate curved forms: the brutal designs normally associated with Soviet-era architecture were reconstructed with Eastern characteristics. Many of the buildings shown in Soviet Asia are recorded here for the first time, making this book an important document, as despite the recent revival of interest in Brutalist and Modernist architecture, a number of them remain under threat of demolition. The publication includes two contextual essays, one by Alessandro De Magistris (architect and History of Architecture professor, University of Milan, contributor to the book Vertical Moscow) and the other by Marco Buttino (Modern and Urban History professor, University of Turin, specializing in the history of social change in the USSR).
