"We're seeing some of the most deadly days in American history," says Dr. Craig Spencer, director of global health in emergency medicine at New York-Presbyterian/Columbia University Medical Center. During the last two weeks, COVID-19 was the leading cause of death in the U.S., outpacing even heart disease and cancer.

Two Explorations - LessWrong

The main question that lingers, however, is what happened to them. We know, based on genetics, that modern humans come largely from the modern people who occupied Africa around 300,000 to 100,000 years ago, at the same time that Neanderthals were living in the icy portions of northern Europe and Asia.

When Did the First Human Appear on Earth?

Much has been written about the fundamental opposition between explore and exploit, chaos and order, yin and yang. In this post I make two observations about the psychology of this opposition. In the first part, I challenge the metaphor of the comfort zone: a slowly-changing region in activity-space where everything inside is comfortable and everything outside induces anxiety.

9 Fundamental Fears That Motivate Your Characters

We had great companions on each trip, but there were many Australians having the best time of their lives on the cruise. They really know how to party!! Juneau is very much a tourist trap but we still enjoyed fighting the big ship people and looking around. We also liked Mendenhall Glacier and getting close to the waterfalls there.

How do we know the history of extreme poverty? - Our World

For Africa we have fewer historical estimates, but we have learned more since Maddison 1995 and what we know does not suggest that people in Africa were richer than Europeans at the time. The available research on living conditions more broadly – for example the estimates of life expectancy shown in the chart below – do suggest that

Bing: What We Cannot Know Explorations

We are bombarded every day with claims about how the world works, claims that have a direct impact on how we think about and solve problems in society and our personal lives. This module explores important considerations for evaluating the tr...

What We Cannot Know Explorations

If we include, for example, my ungrammatical Italian as part of the Italian language (because I happen to know a few Italian words and can surmise about how to put them together), and we do this for every non-native speaker of Italian, then the Italian language will lose its character; it will cease to be what it is — it will hardly be

Archaic Homo - Explorations

Of course, we all possess some elements of each of these types, because the nine fears are universal. But for each character, one fear dominates, and so does one character type. It's important to know the character type of your protagonist, and also of the other characters that your hero comes into contact with.
